INTRODUCTION

Psychology is the scientific study of the mind, human experience, and behaviour, ranging from the basic mechanisms of the nervous system to principles governing social relations. Topics studied include infant attachment, moral development, personality traits, visual perception, judgment and decision-making, fear conditioning, neural imaging, addiction, psychological disorders, prejudice, romantic relationships, and effective behaviour in organizations.

Given the diversity of psychology, students are encouraged to select courses from various areas that make up its core. These are physiological psychology, perception, learning, cognition, developmental psychology, personality, social psychology, and abnormal psychology. Students also take courses on the methods by which psychologists try to understand human behaviour and experience, from observations and surveys to biological procedures. In addition to coursework, students have opportunities to participate in psychological research, and to work with Psychology faculty on specific research projects. Students emerge with a sound understanding of the richness and complexity of human beings, with a broad range of competencies (e.g., spoken and written communication skills, critical thinking, quantitative abilities), and with an appreciation of how people can be understood scientifically.

The study of psychology has many benefits, both personal and professional. Psychology courses provide much specific information relevant to being students, partners, parents, and other important personal roles in life. Professional benefits are similarly diverse. Psychology courses contain content that is fundamental to numerous careers and are often part of training programs or are prerequisites for degrees in areas such as nursing or medicine, education, speech pathology, law enforcement, social services, business, and public administration.

REQUIREMENTS FOR A 3-YEAR BA IN PSYCHOLOGY

The 3-Year BA in Psychology provides students with a basic-level understanding of human behaviour and experience, and of psychological research methods. This is a useful background for people seeking employment in fields that require a general undergraduate degree or for professional programs that admit students with 3-Year degrees. Although there may be some counselling or related programs that accept students with 3-Year degrees, generally students planning graduate studies in Psychology or related fields should pursue the Honours Program.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENT Students are advised, but not required to consult with a member of the Department in planning their course of study.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE CERTIFICATE IN APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY

The Certificate in Applied Psychology acknowledges a course concentration and demonstrated interest in the application of research in psychology. It consists of required and elective course offerings from the Department of Psychology and documented evidence of 90 hours of volunteer placement activities from a community, government, or private organization. The placement provides opportunities for the application of psychological principles (research on behalf of the organization or client mentoring in a supervised setting). Students should contact the department for a list of eligible organizations prior to their registration in PSYC-3790(1). Founding organizational partners are New Directions and the Community Hub Information and Research Partnerships (CHIRP).

Students applying for further study in clinical and counseling psychology, social work, medicine, occupational therapy, speech pathology, among other programs, may find this certificate valuable in documenting volunteer activities in organizations that apply principles of psychology (e.g., social service agencies, educational institutions). Students completing any degree program are eligible to complete the Certificate.

Admission Requirement: Interested students should contact the Department of Psychology prior to enrolment in PSYC-3790(1).

Graduation Requirement: Students request the certificate once all the requirements have been met by completing a form available at the Department of Psychology. A minimum 3.00 in PSYC courses is required at the time of application for the certificate.
