Submission deadline:

Global College invites submissions from members of the University of Winnipeg faculty for the Marsha Hanen Global Dialogue and Ethics Program.

The Marsha Hanen Global Dialogue and Ethics Program was established in 2007 with a generous donation from former University of Winnipeg President Dr. Marsha Hanen, C.M. Dr. Hanen's gift supports interdisciplinary research and dialogue.

The Global Dialogue and Ethics Program promotes the open expression and dissemination of ideas and respectful discussion, by supporting U of W faculty-initiated research and providing an interdisciplinary forum for research and dialogue on topics that include an ethical dimension such as:

- Human rights and responsibilities;
- Women's issues and women's global roles;
- Local and international community needs;
- Freedom of expression and civil liberties;
- Citizenship and participation in globalization and democracy; responsibility and security;
- Global corporate responsibility, ethics, and governance; impacts of science and technology; or
- Global public health issues.

Projects with community and student participation are encouraged wherever appropriate.

One of the goals of the program is to provide seed money for University of Winnipeg faculty members that will allow the recipient to obtain additional funding from other sources, and to develop larger or on-going projects that will have broad impact - both within the University and beyond. Grants vary year to year, but typically are made up to $5,000.00.

See attached Application Form for further information.
